Chamber of Commerce Seeks 100 Additional Members

A campaign to secure 100 additional Kingston Chamber of Commerce memberships was announced today by Lawrence J. MacAvary, chairman of the Membership Committee. At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors the financial condition of the Chamber was reviewed and it was found that 100 more members at $25 each are needed to carry on the expanded program and finish the year without a deficit.

Both the convention bureau and industrial procurement activities have been stepped up and require additional financing. President Robert E. Teetsel stated that several local organizations and individuals have been assisted in successfully bringing a number of conventions to Kingston next spring. Final dates for the New York State Retail Jewelers Association convention next May are now being arranged by Sam D. Scudder, local jeweler, who is a director of the state association. Teetsel said that securing a convention is only one step. Some additional outlay of money is necessary to assure an adequate welcome and have the visitors leave with a good impression of our city. He continued that this is one of the best forms of advertising we can do.

Within a week or ten days an attractive four-page, two-color industrial brochure will be ready for distribution. This brochure was prepared by the New Industry Committee of which Elmer Ryalice is chairman. It will be sent out with the intent of letting industries know why they should consider locating in Kingston. The wording on the front page is "The Answer May Be—Locate in Kingston" with a full-page aerial photograph of the central part of the city.

Teetsel continued that these activities plus numerous others, including the contemplated Apple Blossom Festival, require more funds than the present paid-up membership, of slightly over 400, can provide. A review of the membership indicates that base of membership support should be broadened and some firms could logically and profitably increase the number of memberships now carried. Since the situation was studied at the directors' meeting last week ten additional memberships have already been obtained.

Plans have now been completed for an open membership meeting for Chamber of Commerce members on Wednesday evening, November 2. It will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel starting at 8 p. m. All members will be given an opportunity to suggest things for the Chamber to do. A slight revision to the By-Laws will be voted upon. President Teetsel urges that all those with suggestions or criticisms should attend the open meeting on November 2. A membership progress report will also be given at this meeting.

TESTING CHILDREN
The use of intelligence tests for determining a child's abilities is overdone and has some harmful results, according to Dr. Roger J. Williams, bio-chemist at the University of Texas.
This investigator is not the first to observe that a high IQ is not a guarantee of success in life or even of a profitable school career. Other scientists have concluded that home background and pre-school advantages have much to do with a child's record in a psychological test. That there is no such thing as the average child who can be used as a standard measurement is a fact which has become generally recognized. Teachers and parents who used to become excited over a so-called genius rating have learned to consider the intelligence quotient but one factor in a child's development, and one which should be balanced against his social adjustment, his physical coordination, and characteristics such as persistence and adaptability.
The intelligence test is not a Procrustean bed which every child need stretch and strain to fit. It is merely one of the tools used in determining his abilities, his possibilities, and his needs.

PASSIONS OF WAR
As European nations continue to deal with their war criminals, punishments become lighter. Dr. Werner Best, who ruled Denmark for the Nazis, was sentenced to death when he was tried shortly after the war ended; now a Danish appeals court has commuted this sentence to five years in prison. The court reduced the death sentence of Otto Bovenslaph, Nazi Gestapo chief in Denmark, to life imprisonment. In France, Otto Abetz, Hitler's ambassador to Paris during the war, must have expected only death when he was arrested, but his trial was finished only this summer and his sentence was 20 years.
These are indications that the intense passions of war, like other passions, subside quickly when there are other problems to occupy the mind. If there had been a way to interrupt the kindling of passions when a war was about to begin, and provide a year or two for cooling off, many wars might never have happened.

ON WAGE CONTROLS
The new premier of France, Jules Moch, is a Socialist, but his statements of aims indicate there is one feature of Socialism he would like to abolish. This is government control of wages. He said he hoped for a return to collective bargaining.
Moch must know that government fixing of wages is unavoidable as long as the government engages in such activities as ownership of some industries and strict control of others, and control of prices and other factors of the economy. But government wage control was the rock against which the ship of the Queuille government was crushed; it is understandable that Moch would like to avoid it.

MIS-USED BRAINS
A federal court in the Midwest recently received the case of a delinquent boy who at the age of 15 had a record of half a dozen detected thefts, three in the category of grand larceny and two including breaking and entering, and of eleven escapes from detention institutions. The boy had unusually high intelligence, as shown by standard tests.
Perhaps this boy, still so young, is not yet beyond reclamation. What a pity it would be if such intelligence should find no constructive use. A still greater pity is that the early escapades of a delinquent child all too often are not handled with intelligence which would match that of this boy.

One of the world's finest waterfalls, unknown till a quarter of a century ago, may be harnessed for water power. This is the Tisat cataract, almost as high as Niagara, of the Blue Nile, the branch of the Nile which rises in Ethiopia. It was discovered in 1927

THE COMMUNISTS' LAWYERS

Our courts have for some time been under a barrage of criticism. Men have been appointed to the Supreme Court of the United States who do not command the respect of the legal profession or of the people. It has been rumored that candidates for elective judicial office buy their nominations either by direct transactions or by contributions to party funds. Lawyers have been appointed to receiverships and other "references" whose very appointments give the impression of impropriety, if not of corruption. And lawyers have been seen to behave in court as though they were on a street corner soap box exhibiting themselves without regard to propriety or their positions as officers of the court.

The lawyers who represented the 11 convicted Communists have been held in contempt by Judge Harold Medina and have been sentenced to prison terms. Their behavior in court has outraged every sense of fitness, of order, of the preservation of the dignity of the court. Judge Medina's patience was obviously taxed and at one time he collapsed under the stress of their bad conduct. It does not matter whether they are or are not Communists, or whether they represent Communists. What does matter is that they failed to realize that apart from their proper function of protecting their clients, they also must protect the dignity of our courts and of our judicial process. A lawyer should be a gentleman even while defending a criminal.

These men will probably serve their prison terms and come out to sin some more. But that is not the important thing. What is serious is that a trial such as this could have happened; that the judge should have been forced to accept humiliation, insult, personal abuse to avoid a mistrial, or to prevent some higher court from accepting something that the judge might have said as the basis for a reversal of the decision of the jury. The procedure in the court ought to be revised to protect the judge and the process of law from the irresponsibility and impudence of lawyers who fail to recognize their duty. Certainly the bar associations owe it to the good name and the integrity of their profession to undertake a thorough study of this problem.

In this particular case, the lawyers undoubtedly were more than advocates; they acted as though they were themselves part of the very apparatus of which their clients were the servants. But other lawyers have acted badly in our courts, for no reason other than to confuse the jury. They were taking risks on their behalf. Our courts ought never to be noisy, clamorous, irrelevant institutions. We need to be sure of that in these confusing times.

It would be preferable that judges should not be thrown into the hell-fire of party politics. Our campaigns have grown increasingly distressing. Candidates, even for the highest places, no longer devote themselves to issues, nor do they pursue gently and amicably. They hurl imprecations and accusations at each other.

For instance, in the New York state campaign for United States senator, a motif has been injected which must disgust Americans who love our institutions, particularly the right of the people to choose their own government at a secret election at which each person may vote as an individual, owing at that moment allegiance to no man on earth or to no party but only to God and his own conscience.

Into this campaign have been injected religious differences and the point has been made that John Foster Dulles is a religious bigot. Whoever says that is a liar. But that is not what I am discussing; it is rather that such things could be, that no sense of decency comes to the rescue of those who are maligned because they would serve the United States. We have lost something in these years and if it is left to us to expect dignity, then it would be better that we revert to dignity and propriety and manliness. If our politicians, as our lawyers, need to be buffoons to get on, our country needs protection from its own children, and the children need to be re-educated. ## HELPING THE CHRONICALLY ILL

At times when we look at this world of ours with two recent wars, all our maimed young and now middle-aged men, and the feeling of uncertainty of the future, we may become discouraged. On the other hand as we look at the other side of the picture—workmen's compensation, old age pensions, social security, societies to help the blind and hard of hearing, institutions for tubercular patients, for feeble-minded, and many other welfare organizations—we can see how the world has really advanced in selfishness, and is not entirely a world of greed.

Some weeks ago I spoke of how the sympathy of so many unselfish individuals was being extended to men, women and children who are chronically ill, living day after day and night after night in pain, weariness and loneliness.

In May an organization was formed in Chicago known as the National Commission on Chronic Illness. This represents the culmination of a year's work on the part of four organizations previously mentioned—The American Hospital Association, The American Medical Association, The American Public Health Association, and The American Welfare Association.

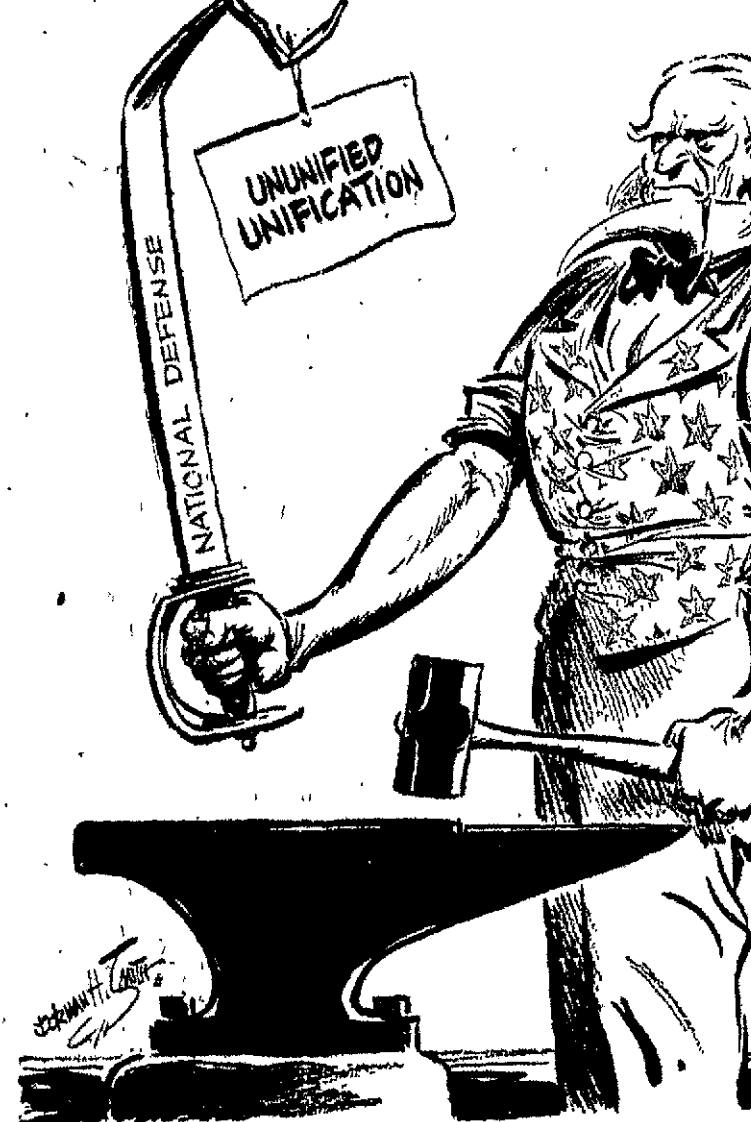

I believe it is only fair that we should again state the goals of this Commission on Chronic Illness: (1) to modify the prevailing attitude that chronic illness is hopeless; to substitute a dynamic program designed as far as possible to prevent chronic illness, to lessen its effects, and to restore its victims to a socially useful and economically productive place in the community; (2) to define the problems arising from chronic illness among all age groups, with full realization of its social as well as medical aspects; (3) to coordinate separate programs for specific diseases (tuberculosis, arthritis, diabetes, etc.), with a general program designed to meet more effectively the needs common to all chronically ill persons; (4) to clarify relationships among professional groups and agencies working in the field of chronic illness and (5) to stimulate in every state and community adoption of a well rounded plan for prevention and control of chronic illness and for the care and rehabilitation of the chronically ill.

by an Englishman, Major Robert E. Chesman. Great Britain, which will furnish the money, and Ethiopia, which provides the site, are making plans for a dam. The third party to the negotiations is Egypt, which, depending on the water of the Nile for its very existence, is naturally concerned with any construction which might lower or cut off one of the two main branches of the river.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—John L. Lewis was so miffed about a Washington Merry-Go-Round account of his oratory at a recent closed-door session on the coal strike that he ordered his right-hand man, John Owens, to bawl out the southern coal operators for allegedly leaking the story.

Owens carried out his instructions, waving the newspaper clipping at Joseph Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers. "We know you leaked the story," protested Owens. "Well, you're talking to me about the wrong people. These columnists all have their prices."

Moody vigorously and correctly denied that he had been the source, but added: "Let's be honest. You were there and so was I. Won't you agree that the story was an honest and factual account of what happened?" "But it didn't make Mr. Lewis look very good," growled Owens. "Well, he didn't look good in the meeting," replied Moody.

Battle of the Admirals

One of the angriest men in the battle of the admirals is the under-secretary of the navy himself, Dan Kimball.

Kimball was invited to an off-the-record meeting of 50 top navy officers in Monterey, Calif., Sept. 21. Officially the meeting was a routine review of naval problems, but Kimball sensed something special was going on. For those present included Admiral Arthur Radford, leadoff man in the navy revolt, together with Vice Admiral Gerald F. Bogan. Therefore, Undersecretary Kimball made a brief speech, pleading with the admirals to lay their cards on the table.

"If you think we're not getting a fair deal," Kimball said, "then let's speak up. After all, I'm one of your own, I used to be assistant secretary of the navy for air. I know your problems."

Kimball told the admirals that President Truman had ordered waste removed from the defense spending picture, and that the defense budget would have to be cut two billion dollars by 1951.

"If you feel this is wrong," Kimball said, "speak up. I promise you we'll get a fair hearing. I can walk into Louis Johnson's office any time I want, and get a hearing. So now is the time to talk."

The admirals looked down their noses, gave Kimball silent treatment. Not it was at this very same meeting—without telling the undersecretary of the navy—that Admiral Bogan wrote his now famous letter complaining about navy morale. And it was at this meeting also that Admiral Radford added his postscript to the letter that touched off the powder keg in Washington.

Capital News Capsules

Isolationism—Nevada—Senator Tom Connally, Texas Democrat, rallied a group of senators the other day to vote against an amendment by Senator George Malone, Nevada Republican. "Let's get out there and vote," stirred Connally. "I don't know what it's about, but it was offered by Malone. So I'm against it." Many senators feel the same way about the gentleman from Nevada, who is one of the leading isolationists in Congress.

Unhappy Hindu—Prime Minister Nehru of India is irked at the State Department for the man-killing tour of the U.S.A. they've arranged. During his 25-day stay he will see virtually nothing but banquet tables, formal receptions and luncheons. What he really wanted was a chance to get acquainted with the plain people of the United States so he could decide how India should line up in the future. But the State Department disregarded this and arranged for 30 formal parties during the 26 days.

Feuding Senators—Washington's lampish Senator Cain, a Republican, tried to make political capital on the Senate floor over a $238 check paid by a group of universities to Senator Magnuson, a Democrat, also from Washington. The money covered Magnuson's travel expenses to New Orleans for a speaking engagement sponsored by the universities. What Senator Cain didn't mention is that he, too, has kept a few speaking engagements—has flown to Honolulu to take part in the Town Meeting of the Air, to Walla Walla, Washington, to speak locally; and to Boston to speak before the apartment house owners. In each case, Cain's expenses were paid in full by the sponsoring organizations.

Shipping Bonanza
Capitol newsmen were skeptical

when Representative Porter Hardy of Virginia announced there would be a complete and forthright probe of the Maritime Commission and its squandering of taxpayers' money on ship contracts.

So many congressional committees have been spreading the whitewash late that newsmen doubted Hardy would make good his promise—especially since he hails from the big maritime area around Norfolk.

However, the courageous Virginian not only confirmed all that alert Comptroller General Lindsay Warren had said about maritime commission waste, but went even further. Hardy produced evidence showing that the commission had entered into agreements with the U. S. Lines, American Export Lines, and the American President Lines for the sale of six ships for $70,000,000, though the ships had cost the government $150,000,000 to build.

The Hardy subcommittee also found that most of the $28,000,000 being spent for so-called "national defense features" on the six new vessels—at no cost to the government—was an outright gift, because many of these features can be utilized commercially in peacetime.

The report, supported by able Expenditures Committee Chairman William Dawson of Illinois, urged that steps be taken to re-group as much as possible of this largesse to the shippers; also that maritime laws be rewritten to prevent such extravagance in the future.

Diplomatic Pouch
Russian troops are infiltrating into northern Iran in what looks like a new attempt to stir up revolt. The American Embassy has called the State Department that last week 400 Russians, disguised as tribesmen, penetrated into Azerbaijan province and distributed arms to the rebel tribesmen in the area. . . . The Chinese Communist armies are about to win their greatest victory—diplomatic recognition from the west. This week, London and Washington are sending identical notes to the French, Belgian and Dutch governments asking agreement on a list of items that can be traded with the Communists. This list is referred to in diplomatic circles as a "non-contraband" list. After agreement is reached on these lists, Britain, eager to trade with the Chinese Reds will extend de facto recognition to the Communist regime in China. We'll be the last to act. But we'll recognize too. (Copyright, 1949, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Bradley, Vandenberg Have Been Frank With House Armed Services Committee

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 20—Generals Bradley and Vandenberg have been exceedingly frank with the House Armed Services Committee and with the American people. They have confirmed the worst fears of the United States Navy—namely, that the "basic strategic concept" of the United States in a possible war is tied definitely to the thought that strategic bombing is depended upon primarily to win.

This concept, moreover, dismisses naval air power in the form of aircraft carriers as desirable but not necessary. It holds also that amphibious warfare can be conducted by the army instead of the marines hereafter and that large-scale amphibious landings in the future are not anticipated.

This is comparable to the views tenaciously held in 1939 by the French general staff—namely, that the Maginot Line would furnish all the protection necessary against a possible German attack.

It is comparable also to the view held in 1939 by the German general staff—namely, that the Siegfried Line was an adequate defense, that no navy was required and no amphibious landings were to be anticipated, and that Goering's air force, which dominated Germany's unification policy, would win the victory.

Generals Bradley and Vandenberg are sincere men with honest convictions and forthright viewpoints. But just as General Bradley, for example, complains that navy men do not understand land warfare, so the navy's officers of top rank have felt for a long time that General Bradley, with his land army experience, does not understand the navy.

Thus, General Bradley repeats what has been said by others—that, because Russia has no navy, there is no need to worry about America's naval strength. Yet General Bradley insists that the navy must keep the sea lanes open. How can the navy keep control of the seas if Russian aircraft flying out of the North Sea prey on allied shipping to and from bases in the Scandinavian area? Navies cannot protect commerce unless they can defend themselves against the enemy's land-based planes.

Can General Bradley or anyone else assure the American people that Russia will not attack allied shipping with land-based bombers? Can anyone today assure the American people that Russian submarines, which have the best of all the latest German inventions, can be kept from interfering with the supplies of aviation gasoline and other necessities needed by our allies in the North Atlantic?

General Bradley and Vandenberg are one of the navy men who fight the submarines, but the records of the last war show that Germany not only came in a submarine but under a wartime flag that none of the allied planes was able at any time in the war to bomb effectively. The submarine bases on the European continent from which the Nazi submarines emerged so regularly without interception. Submarine bases are covered with heavy thicknesses of concrete which no atom bomb can penetrate.

General Bradley assumes that the Mediterranean and the Persian Gulf and the waters of the Pacific are not primarily important in the next war. He apparently assumes also that Alaska, which has to be supplied by sea, can be defended against enemy planes and submarines from Siberia. He assumes that the navy's help is not going to be paramount there. His reasoning must mean that America will write off China and Japan as the Far East as a theatre of war. If the navy isn't going to have adequate aircraft carrier task forces, it would be comforting, indeed, if the enemy attacked exactly the defending power in the Pacific. But Japan, with a fleet of aircraft carriers, caught the United States Army napping at Pearl Harbor and found the air force without a base. The American Navy and its necessary planes to defend the base. The American Navy and its necessary planes to defend the base.

Something more was wrong at Pearl Harbor, however, than military neglect of all three services. It was the American military complacency which assumes the enemy will do exactly as the blueprints call for. The answer to a successful defense is to build a balance of defense capable of the enemy's in the next few years. To protect America against a global attack, the answer also lies in a flexible rather than an inflexible concept of strategy. For the next war will not be fought in Europe alone but everywhere on the seven seas and on all continents adjacent to the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 19—The tumult and the shouting have died and I observe that Major-General Harry H. Vaughan is still holding down his job in the White House as assistant military aide to President Truman. He has not been indicted nor arrested and, as of this hour, no person with clean hands has made any charge against him beyond criticism of his ethics and sense of propriety.

Actually, General Vaughan is a political aide to the President and should not have worn his military uniform during the performance of the duties of this office. I believe it was the naive vanity of a national guardsman, a Rotarian sort of fellow who never thought to become a major-general and, having got his stars, naturally wanted to catch sidelong glimpses of them in the showrooms, that caused him to wear his regimentals in an honorary civilian position long after the war. This was unwise because the ethics of the corps of officers of our regular army and navy, though too often honored in the breach, are so austere and pure that a politician in a general's uniform was bound to look bad.

Say what you will about the sorry, selfish conduct, even venality of some members of the "brass," the code itself is still a beautiful statement of principles and pledge of virtue and I am not joining in the campaign against General Vaughan when I observe that he wasn't up to it. How could he? You have to be schooled in this code as a young man when your principles are juicy and few civilians can measure up to it and, be it added, unfortunately, too few officers by civilian standards. Vaughan was certainly no worse than average and by the moral standards of the White House under Roosevelt he was prime.

General Vaughan was an intermediary. Is that a low occupation?

Farm Plans in Clear

Washington, Oct. 20 (AP)—Congressional passage of new farm legislation cleared the way today for a 1950 agricultural program embracing (1) high level price supports and (2) production controls for basic crops. But for some products not subject to government controls, a reduction in price guarantees appeared likely. Approval by President Truman of the new legislation, permitting continuance indefinitely of price supports at or near wartime levels, was taken for granted. The bill finally whipped through Congress yesterday, on the last day of the session. The vote in the House was 175 to 34 and in the Senate it was 46 to 7.

Dulles Insists Upon Debate With Lehman on Issues

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—Senator John Foster Dulles campaigned here today, still demanding a face-to-face debate with ex-Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, whom he tagged a "hit-and-run" campaigner.

Dulles came to the big town after saying upstate that his Democratic-Liberal Senate opponent had accused him of bigotry "to blot out" what he called Lehman's acceptance of "Communist support in 1946."

The Republican candidate said Lehman had "set underway a great whispering campaign against me" and had "stirred up ugly forces for cheap partisan advantage."

Dulles told an audience of about 1,200 at a G.O.P. rally in Troy last night that Lehman's accusation was "a dirty charge" and added: "I dare not make that charge openly to my face and give me a chance to disprove it to his face."

Lehman has rejected two invitations from Dulles for face-to-face debates on campaign issues. Lehman called the challenge a "press agent stunt."

The rival candidates may meet tonight. Both will attend the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation Dinner tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Dulles completed a three-day campaign swing down the Mohawk valley yesterday. He makes his only political appearance today, at a luncheon sponsored by the New York Young Men's and Young Women's Republican Clubs.

Tomorrow, Dulles will address a luncheon sponsored by the Citizens Committee for Dulles. He will participate in the "Meet the Press" radio program in the evening.

Dulles called Lehman a "hit-and-run" campaigner at Troy after mentioning Lehman's bigotry accusations and the Democrat's refusal to meet him in face-to-face debate. Dulles said his "entire life gives the lie" to the bigotry charge.

The senator, at the same time, charged in a statement broadcast that Lehman had "openly accepted" the American Labor Party's Senate nomination in 1946. Dulles said Communist elements took control of the ALP in 1944 and have controlled it since.

Dulles said Lehman had written him a letter renewing the bigotry charge and saying: "It was not until after the 1946 election that Communist influence took over the American Labor Party."

"That is utterly untrue and anyone conversant with New York political life knows that it is untrue," Dulles said.

Dulles said "Communist elements took 620 out of 750 members of the (A.L.P.) state committee" in the 1944 primary election.

British Group Rebukes Princess

London, Oct. 20 (AP)—Britain's Marriage Law Reform Committee publicly rebuked Princess Elizabeth today for saying that divorcees lead to many of the nation's social evils.

Mrs. R. S. W. Pollard, chairman of the Committee of Sociologists and Lawyers who want English divorcees made easier to get, said the princess had the wrong slant and her comment was regrettable. "We have observed (it) with regret," she said.

Her statement to the press was unusual in that it constituted an open disagreement with a member of the royal family, usually criticized only by Communists and a very small group of British anti-Royalists, and then only rarely.

The princess' statement was the strongest ever made by modern British royalty about specific sociological problems. Deploring what she called "falling moral standards here, she told a British mothers' union rally Tuesday that "divorces and separations are responsible for some of the darkest evils of our society."

Mrs. Pollard said that "divorce and separation are not themselves responsible for the evils she refers to.

"It is the causes, such as inadequate housing, unstable partners, which lead to the breakup of marriages and are responsible for some of the bad effects to which the princess referred.

"Divorce only recognizes in law an existing state of facts that a marriage has failed."

Buckingham Palace had no comment on Mrs. Pollard's statement.

Foresees Atomic Planes

London, Oct. 20 (AP)—Atomic-powered planes "in the foreseeable future" is the vision of Glenn L. Martin, chairman of the board of the American aircraft company bearing his name. Martin makes the prediction in the 1949-50 edition of the authoritative Jane's "All the World's Aircraft," published today. Martin wrote, however, that big planes powered by atomic energy would be "appallingly expensive." Pilotless guided missiles he declared will be perfected to "operate at such high efficiency that the piloted fighter planes will be largely obsolete." Jane's also lists a new Russian single-engine fighter with a reported top speed of 652 miles an hour.

Bosch Talks to Naval Reserve

Ensign John J. Bosch, USNR, attached to the U. S. Naval Reserve Training Center, Newburgh, addressed members of the Kingston Naval Reserve Unit last evening.

Ensign Bosch was attached to the USS Randolph, a carrier which participated in many of the raids in the South Pacific. Ensign Bosch's subject was Departmental Changes in Ship Organization. He pointed out that there was no longer a designation as first lieutenant aboard naval vessels. The duties of the first lieutenant were absorbed by the gunnery officer who had charge of the hull and deck as well as the gunnery and the engineering officer, who had charge of the below deck equipment.

In addition a newly created division was formed, namely the operations officer, who had charge of operational efficiency of the vessel as well as planning and training.

Ensign Bosch stated that the changes have been productive of greater efficiency in operations and centralizing of responsibility.

The next scheduled lecture will be given by Lt. Robert W. Hinsdale, USNR, from Newburgh on November 16th. His topic will be PT-Operations and should prove highly interesting.

All members and friends are invited.

Chinese Reds Rout Two Armies in West Drive

Hong Kong, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Communists stabbed westward today in what may be the death blow to the Nationalists on China's mainland.

Chinese newspapers here reported that two government armies were routed in a Red thrust at Kweilin in the southwest. There was no confirmation.

Red Gen. Lin Piao appeared to be trying to split the shattered Nationalist domain in two with a quick knockout of its last big mainland force—the 200,000-man force of Gen. Pai Chung-hsi.

Press accounts said the conqueror of Manchuria, Tientsin and Hankow sent veterans of the Red's fourth field army straight at Pai's home base, Kweilin. The Kwangsi province city is 250 air miles northwest of Canton.

The dispatches said two of Pai's armies were blasted along the Kwangsi-Hunan border. The Reds were reported racing along the rail line to Kweilin, and had either taken or bypassed Chushien, only 70 miles to the north-east.

To the south, another Communist force commanded by Gen. Chen Keng was reported slashing westward from the newly won Canton area. These troops were said to be less than 50 miles from the Kwangsi border. Their drive was along the West river.

In still another sector, the Reds continued operations to mop up the Chushan archipelago 100 miles south of Communist-held Shanghai. The main island, Chu Shan, is a major Nationalist air and naval blockade base.

Pro Nationalist dispatches from Formosa said the Reds had attacked Tao Hsin Island just off the southern tip of Chu Shan and only three miles east of the mainland city of Ningbo, which they previously captured. Tao Hsin would provide a springboard for invasion of Chu Shan.

The push to Kwangsi seemed in itself evidence that the Reds were determined to extend their control quickly over the entire mainland.

Only two days ago, Nationalist quarters at Chungking expected the Communists' westward drive would be aimed at Kweichow, almost defenseless province just north of Kwangsi. They thought the Reds would take it and cut off Pai's armies from Chungking, new Nationalist refuge capital to the northwest.

Instead, Lin's Reds appeared to be concentrating their power on the cream of the remaining Nationalist forces defending Pai's native province.

Possession of Kwangsi would put the Communists on the border of Yunnan province in China's far southwest. They would then be within easy striking distance of Kunming, Yunnan's capital.

There has been much speculation that the Nationalists would try to set up their provisional capital at Kunming if they were chased from Chungking.

Kwangsi itself would put the Communists on the border of French Indo-China.

Social Services Doomed

London, Oct. 20 (AP)—The British government, hunting drastic economies, appeared ready today to halt expansion of its cradle-to-grave social services. Political informants said the social services and the armed forces are two of the prime targets of Prime Minister Clement Attlee's economy drive. Each takes about a quarter of the nation's annual budget of £3,000,000,000 ($8,400,000,000).

The cabinet's economic policy committee met again today. It is believed to have completed a strict economy program which Attlee will announce Monday in the House of Commons.

Penn Railroad Grants Negroes Coach Privileges

New York, Oct. 20 (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad has pledged first-come, first-served seats to Negro passengers bound south from New York on its through trains.

But at least two other connecting railroads serving the deep south say state restrictions prohibit them from following suit. Effective immediately, the Pennsylvania Railroad has agreed to meet complaints raised by the New York Mayor's Committee on Unity. These were filed with the New York State Commission against Discrimination.

The Pennsylvania said it would reserve coach seats on through trains for all passengers alike in any part of the train.

In the past, the road said, Negro passengers got reserved seats in any part of the train when they asked for them. When they didn't ask, the railroad said, it tried to place Negroes in separate cars from whites. The Pennsylvania said it did this to save Negroes possible embarrassment and inconvenience south of Washington.

In Washington, F. L. Jenkins, director of passenger traffic for the southern railroad, said state laws require segregation in parts of the south. His railroad observes these laws, he added.

However, Jenkins said, the Southern in recent years has not ejected from their seats any Negroes whose trips began north of Washington.

In Norfolk, Va., the Seaboard Railroad also said it practices segregation to meet the laws of states through which its trains pass. The railroad said it does not plan to follow the action of the Pennsylvania.

Segregation, the Seaboard said, insures harmony in the south. Negro passengers get accommodations equal to whites, the railroad added.

Kiwanis Club Gives $75 to Vet's Fund

The Sheehan Home Fund Committee, an organization which seeks $12,000 to provide a residence for Harold Sheehan and family, has received a check for $75 from the Kingston Kiwanis Club.

Sheehan, totally disabled paraplegic, was wounded in action in the South Pacific.

The letter from the Kiwanis Club to the committee follows:

Kiwanis, as you know, does a great deal of welfare work in the city of Kingston. However, we consider this appeal one of the worthiest to which we have had the privilege of contributing. We join you wholeheartedly in the belief that no one can offer less than their very utmost in responding to the appeal for assistance in helping Harold Sheehan to help himself. We further feel that the financial sacrifice that might be made by any of our citizens in offering their aid would pale into insignificance in comparison to the very evident personal sacrifice Sheehan made for our common welfare.

Please accept our congratulations on behalf of the group of public spirited citizens who are running this very worthy campaign.

Marquess Will Do Talking for Family

New York, Oct. 20.—The Marquess of Milford Haven apparently is going to do the talking for his family when he gets married. At least his fiancée, Mrs. Romaine Simpson, hardly peeped when they talked in her native land today.

The slender, dark-haired American divorcee and blond David Mountbatten, second cousin of King George VI, were shy when the Queen Elizabeth docked—and breakfasted.

Questions about their romance and wedding plans mostly were brushed aside by Milford Haven who was best man for Prince Philip when the latter married Princess Elizabeth. He did disclose, however, that his mother, the dowager marchioness, would come to this country for the wedding. They expect to be married in Washington, D. C., "late in November," he said. Mrs. Simpson was not present when Milford Haven talked to reporters and showed up reluctantly for photographs with her fiancée. Later, she did consent to show her engagement ring—a huge ruby set in a circle of diamonds—to reporters. She pulled off a glove, and then almost immediately donned it again.

Think You Have Trouble? Consider This Poor Fellow

Baltimore, Oct. 20.—When he won a field commission in France in 1944, Albert Miller raised the allotment he was scheduled to receive to $170 a month.

The Army got it mixed up and made it $270 a month. Miller continued to get the difference between $170 and his regular pay. The lieutenant found out about the mixup while he was convalescing from a wound suffered at St. Lo. He wrote Army officials a letter or two and was told that things would be straightened out.

But the Army continued to send $270 a month back to Baltimore. That went on for 23 months. When Miller was handed his discharge papers, he was also handed a communication which said, in effect:

"You owe us $2,300. Please remit."

Miller paid, and received a receipt.

He dismissed the whole thing from his mind.

Then, early last year, he received a letter from the Army. It said, in effect:

"You owe us $2,300. Please remit."

With it was a self-addressed return envelope.

A series of letters was exchanged. After many months, the Army wrote that it had found its mistake and that Miller's financial record was straight.

Miller carefully put the whole file away for a possible contingency. It came a day or two ago. In the mail was a letter from the Army. It said, in effect:

"You owe us $2,300. Please remit in enclosed envelope."

Things Look Brighter
Pittsburgh, Oct. 20.—Things began to look brighter today in this strike-weary coal and steel capital. Several hundred window washers went back to work. They started cleaning windows on skyscrapers which haven't been touched since September 30. The window washers, members of A.F.L. Window Washers Local 18, accepted a seven and one-half cent pay boost.

Takes Over Two Firms

All are industrial wiping cloth service companies. Northeast has a laundry here which services most of New England. Walter L. McGuire, McGuire Bros., Inc., president, announced the acquisition of the two plants which were formerly subsidiaries of the Gallaway Community Foundation.

To Outlaw Machines
London, Oct. 20.—The British home secretary promised today to take action to outlaw slot machines that dispense contraceptives. The decision followed hot Church of England criticism of the machines. "I have concluded that the social mischief involved is so serious as to require immediate action," declared Home Secretary Chuter Ede in the House of Commons. He said a law would be drafted at once.

American Legion Memorial Hall, on West O'Reilly street. Lt. Joseph Deegan and Lt. William Beardon will present resumes of the latest air force regulations and directives concerning Air Force Reserve functions.

The principal speaker of the evening will be Corp. John Degan, whose subject will be "The Russian Situation." Maj. Willis Locke, squadron and adjutant, will preside at the meeting. All members and those interested in becoming members of the United States Air Force Reserve are invited to attend.

Mouse Control Is To Be Taught to Ulster Orchardists

A newly developed mouse control method for orchards will be demonstrated at two meetings Monday, October 24, sponsored by the Ulster County Farm Bureau. Main feature of the new method is that it permits distribution of the mouse poison by mechanical means instead of manually as in other methods, according to William H. Palmer, county agricultural agent.

The new method will be explained and demonstrated by William Clark, a member of the conservation department at Cornell University. Meetings will be at 10 a. m. Monday at Claude Hopworth's orchard at Milton and at 2 p. m. the same day at the Devo Orchard in Gardiner. All fruit growers may attend.

Independent Milk Dealers Ask Bar On Sheffields

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 20 (AP)—A group of independent New York city milk distributors want the milk marketing license of Sheffield Farms, Inc., revoked because of price cuts effected by the concern.

Alfred Sperber, executive director of the Milk Dealers and Processors Association, said yesterday the group had asked State Agriculture Commissioner C. Chester Du Mond to revoke Sheffield's license on the grounds of unfair competition.

He said the association's request, made verbally at an informal meeting with the commissioner here Tuesday, stemmed from Sheffield's action last week in cutting retail milk prices in New York city as much as two and a half cents a quart.

Sperber contended that the price cuts constituted unfair competition within the meaning of section 258-C of the state agriculture and markets law.

The price reduction, he added, would "drive independent dealers and any other competitors out of business."

Sperber told a reporter that the Borden Company, the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association and a group of distributors from the metropolitan area outside New York city supported the association's stand.

In New York city, however, a Borden spokesman said his company "took no position concerning the revocation of any dealer's license."

Hartsdale Man Heads State Fire Safety Group

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 20 (AP)—B. Richter, Township of Hartsdale today was appointed chief of the Bureau of Fire Mobilization of the State Division of Safety.

Township will fill the $6,000-a-year post left vacant by the resignation because of poor health of Thomas H. Condes of Rochester.

The appointment was announced by Thomas W. Ryan, director of the Safety Division.

Township is a former chief of the Hartsdale Fire Department in Westchester county. He was in charge of the fire control center of the county's fire chiefs' emergency plan. The emergency plan handles cooperative mutual aid between fire departments in the county.

The Fire Mobilization Bureau is one of three under the State Safety Division. The others are the Bureau of Safety and Accident Prevention and the Bureau of Police Mobilization and Activities.

said Borden was forced to duplicate Sheffield's price cut, but that "no economic justification existed for the decrease."

Sperber said the state agriculture commissioner had authority to revoke or refuse a license if a dealer engages in competitive practices "which tend to disrupt the (milk) market and create a chaotic condition."

He also said Du Mond promised to study the situation and call a public hearing if he found any basis for the complaint. Du Mond was not available for comment.

At the June meeting a committee was elected by the members present to select and appoint members of the society to the various committees. Myron Teller presented the following list which was approved by a unanimous vote. Notices are being sent to those appointed and it is anticipated that there may be a few changes later.

O.C.S. Session Is Held at Armory

The first monthly sessions of the Officers Candidate School recently organized at the State Armory in Kingston were conducted on Sunday commencing at 9:30 a. m.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk formally opened the new school with a word of welcome to 30 enlisted men of National Guard Units from Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Middletown, Catskill, Hudson and Kingston.

The mayor stressed the importance of military education and preparedness to meet emergencies in war and peace. The opportunities available now for men to secure education in military fields are greater than ever before. The O.C.S. in Kingston is an example of this fact. Men who are willing to sacrifice the time and put forth the efforts to learn are assured of every assistance from National Guard officers in reaching the goal of future officers in the National Guard. Leadership is essential in all military organizations and capable officers with the know-how at hand are greatly needed and their services are being solicited.

County Clerks Are Given Problem in Sample Ballots

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 20 (AP)—County clerks were wondering today what to do with sample ballots containing loyalty designations declared unconstitutional by the Appellate Division of New Jersey Superior Court yesterday.

The court ruled that no oath other than that set forth in the state constitution could be made a condition of running for governor or the Legislature. It knocked out only as far as those offices were concerned a ballot statement refused oath of allegiance for those failing to take a pledge required by a law passed this year.

The oath, prescribed for all candidates for public office, teachers and state employees, pledges loyalty to the United States. It denies allegiance to any foreign government or membership in an organization seeking to overthrow the government by force and violence.

Attorney Gen. Theodore D. Parsons, charged with defending an act approved by the Legislature and the governor, said the decision upsetting the oath would be appealed to State Supreme Court.

Ernest K. Kerr, chief clerk in the secretary of state's office, said he sent telegrams to 21 county clerks directing them to omit designation of failure to take the oath from Nov. 8 ballot listing of gubernatorial and legislative candidates.

However, it was still uncertain whether sample ballots ready in some counties to be sent to voters would have to be reprinted or the invalidated portions simply blocked out.

The court decision written by Judge John O. Bigelow held that running for governor and the Legislature was a constitutional right reserved a lower court ruling that public office is a political privilege.

The suit was brought by James Imbrie, Progressive party candidate for governor who refused to take the oath after asserting it was unconstitutional.

The earth's whole magnetic field is of internal origin.

The water department, it was revealed, will handle the furnishing and laying of pipe on the Greenhill avenue and Broadway projects after the other work is done by the project contractor who will do the digging on these and the Cornell to Thomas street and Thomas street to Railroad avenue projects. Temporary streets will be built in the latter two areas.

Mayor Newkirk explained at the opening of the session that it was "the first meeting of all the local utility organizations with municipal department heads to discuss procedures as concern the construction of the underpass on Broadway," with the construction superintendent.

It was found unnecessary at the time to discuss phases of the project affecting the local police and fire departments.

Those attending were: City Engineer Arthur J. Hallinan, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Police Chief Raymond VanBuren, Jack Duigan, construction superintendent for the contractor; Superintendent Stauding, public works; Superintendent John J. Young Magnan was brought to the hospital several days after his four-year-old sister, Lorelle, was admitted there for treatment of the disease. The hospital reported favorably today on the condition of the girl.

The young man was the son of Nicholas and Geradine White Magnan, and was a veteran of World War 2, serving as a sergeant in the G-4 section of headquarters, Seventh Infantry Division in Korea. He served there 18 months following eight months of service with the R.O.T.C. at Rutgers University.

St. Magnan received for his service in the army, the Army of Occupation Medal and the World War 2 Victory Medal. He had recently been a student at George Washington University, Washington, D. C., majoring in psychology. Besides his parents and sister, he is survived by a brother, Donald J., and another sister, Diane. The family recently acquired a large dairy farm at South Kortright.

The funeral will be held from the White residence, 68 McBee street, Monday at 9:30 a. m. and at St. Mary's Church at 10 a. m. where a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

say, because he felt the council should not mix in politics in such ways as promoting administration programs before Congress. This to Nourse was vital—while a President might have to temper his economics in the light of politics, he held, the council should stand as an institution, not identified with any party and serving any administration.

Keyserling and the third council member, Dr. John D. Clark, held that the council had the same obligation to press for Mr. Truman's economic policies as for instance, the secretary of state had to support foreign policy proposals.

Thus, Keyserling and Clark, after outvoting Nourse 2 to 1 for strict anti-inflation controls a year ago, went before Congress to press their view. Nourse would not testify.

Three days ago it became known that Nourse was urging Mr. Truman to accept his year-old resignation. Two days ago, in an address, he spoke his alarm at seeing "government slipping back into deficits as a way of life." Yesterday his resignation was accepted.

Nourse will not return to the Brookings Institution, of which he was formerly vice president and senior economist. He is one year past the institution's retirement age of 65.

As Congress went home, it could count among its achievements in 186 actual working days a rounded program for foreign policy legislation. This included extension of the European Recovery Program; approval of the Atlantic Pact, inauguration of military assistance to Europe and continuation of the reciprocal trade agreements authority.

In a statement, Senator Lucas of Illinois, Democratic leader of the Senate, said this proved Congress had "rejected the counsels of the isolationists."

He said it proved further that the lawmakers were "not duped by the propaganda of the pro-Communists" who he said, joined with isolationists in an attempt to wreck the bipartisan foreign policy.

On home issues, Congress voted pay raises for federal employees, from the President down the line, and upped military salaries. It approved a some reorganization plans, extended rent control and voted export controls.

The lawmakers also passed a housing bill to run until March 1, revamped farm price supports, expanded the hospital construction program, authorized rural telephone loans and lifted the minimum wage level from 40 to 75 cents an hour.

Washington, Oct. 20 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower confidently told Congress today he believes armed services unification will work "from this moment on" and "the unified America can lick the world."

He called on the quarreling armed services and Congress to give unification a chance and not to "panic" at the first setback.

The commander of allied forces in the victorious European war—now the president of Columbia University—stepped into the bitter inter-service row with this observation:

"We are expecting perfection too quickly."

He appeared before the House Armed Services Committee to speak off the cuff on unification differences, and at the invitation of Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) to "give us the benefit of your advice."

"We are in hot water in the Pentagon, and we are in hot water up here," Vinson told him.

Eisenhower's advice simmered down pretty much to the view that things will work out all right if everyone will just take it easy and not get excited. In unification as in war, he said, setbacks must be expected.

From Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the army's present top leader, the committee had just gotten assurance that the army is not plotting to deny the famed marine corps its "right to fight."

Massachusetts had little but criticism for it.

The first session of the 81st Congress, which has just adjourned, he said in a statement, "will go down in history as the first which bent before the gale of statism."

Public Health

family will become resourceful in meeting their health needs.

"The public health nurse has a community responsibility in keeping before the attention of its citizens the needs and reasons for adequate funds, facilities and services," Miss Schisa said.

General fields in which the public health nurse works are maternity, child hygiene, school health, adult hygiene, communicable disease control, tuberculosis, venereal disease, non-communicable disease, orthopedic service, accident prevention, nutrition, cancer nursing and working with lay community organizations interested in health, she said.

Qualifications for a public health nurse, as set up in the sanitary code established by the Public Health Council of the state, require that she be a graduate professional nurse and must have completed an approved program of instruction in public health nursing of one scholastic year in residence, or a combination of public health nursing experience and special training which is considered equivalent to that qualification.

Harry F. Edinger, director of sanitation, discussed the present aspects of communicable disease control and health department programs with respect to sanitation. He emphasized the point that in a local service unit the particular job of sanitation was to control without undue expense, the so-called "older infection cycles."

Edinger said that in doing this work, freedom was given to the medical and nursing staffs and officials to work as a unit in attacking the current problems of cancer, tuberculosis, and chronic diseases. He indicated that there is a continuing need for "extreme watchfulness in controlling the main infection vector" and that new programs which might draw money, time and personnel from control of the older public health barriers should be embarked upon with some caution.

Mrs. Weber Speaks

Vital to control programs is the office staff of the Ulster County Health Department, according to Mrs. Mary E. Weber, office manager.

Physicians report cases of communicable and certain other diseases to the health department. All births and deaths occurring in the county, as well as those of Ulster county residents occurring outside the county, are recorded in cooperation with the city registrar of vital statistics, she said.

"These reports form the basis for planning health protection measures. With information about past years available, it is possible to know when a particular disease is getting out of hand and to do something about it before serious damage is done," Mrs. Weber said.

The office force of the Ulster County Health Department consists of the office manager, nine stenographers and two typists.

Miss Blanche Armstrong, public health educator, explained her functions and duties as being mainly "to promote the educational aspects of health programs to individuals and to groups." Her activities include promotion of community surveys to determine health problems, stimulation of the public to plan together to improve personal and community problems, promotion of a working relationship with official and non-official agencies, preparation of health materials to be used in a public education program and making available health information through posters, pamphlets, exhibits and through press and radio.

Members of the public health nursing committee adjourned for lunch at 1 p. m., following which there was scheduled a talk by Mr. Edgar M. Clarke, Jr., president of the county committee, on the topic, "What Are Your Local Public Health Commitments?"

The group was scheduled to adjourn the annual meeting in time to attend the formal opening of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic at 2:30 p. m. today.

aidances which resulted in insufficient working capital. This situation is expected to be entirely eliminated in the future," Schwartzstein said.

The firm estimates that during the next month it will be able to sell $100,000 worth of books at a $25,000 profit. Its expenses for the month, according to the petition would amount to $20,577.

In addition to Schwartzstein, the company's principal officers are S. Mulford Blazer, vice-president and secretary of New York city; and Lester Kaplan, treasurer, of Yonkers. Under the firm's petition, all of the officers would take a cut in salary during the reorganization period.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to The Editor must bear the name of the writer. Communications must be free of libel and personal attacks upon individuals as such. Only original communications addressed to The Freeman will be printed.

October 19, 1949

Editor, The Freeman:

I would appreciate it a lot if you would kindly print this letter as it might help in preventing so many animals in meeting with such untimely deaths.

Yesterday, the school children on their way home to lunch, knocked at my door to report that my beautiful pet Angora cat was laying miserably in a pool of blood from a woman driver who, after running over the animal, proceeded on her merry way in her car. I stood there looking at my dying pet wondering what to do to relieve the suffering when as God willed it, along came two policemen and they knew exactly what to do. I'm very thankful to them for putting the poor cat out of her misery.

I hope the driver of that car reads this and feels a bit remorseful because the cat that they hit leaves a little week-old baby who I am desperately trying to save with nourishment by means of a medicine dropper.

This is the fourth cat I have lost in this manner. I wish people would drive more carefully and give little children and God's animals a half a chance at life.

As Pegler Sees It

by Johnny Maragon and, if you want the truth, so was I. But Johnny is an ingratiating fellow, the kind known as a swipe or grifter in the prize-fight trade, always volunteering to hustle you sandwiches, carry your typewriter, run across town to get your laundry or anything like that. He latched onto Vaughan and imposed on this propensity to turn little tricks for himself. The evidence suggests to me that he became a name-dropper and seized an importance that Vaughan did not intend him to have. That was careless of the general and, in the end, he found that he was being held responsible for conduct by Maragon which he would not have permitted had he known in time. But Maragon's very ignorance and clumsiness precluded him from the really sinister and dangerous machinations of Harry Hopkins and others who had the run of the White House under Roosevelt. After all, Maragon wasn't sitting in at cabinet meetings as Henry Wallace had.

He told me that when he was a passenger agent for the Baltimore and Ohio he booked the Roosevelt funeral train from Washington to Linden, N. J., and back from Linden to Washington and that the Pennsylvania got only 19 miles of business each way. I took his word, never suspecting that he would be dumb enough to lie about such a thing. But I soon learned that there wasn't a word of truth in it. So Johnny gets found out and the worst to be said of General Vaughan in this regard is that he hadn't the heart to be sharp to a fellow who was all over him.

This is in the nature of a review because when the campaign was hottest I discerned that the original motive was malice and revenge.

I say that if F.D.R. had been George Spelvin his manipulation of the settlement of Elliott's loans of more than a quarter of a million dollars would have been an indelible offense. Roosevelt contrived this swindle so as to stick an innocent, trusting citizen for his scamp son's financial obligation to his discarded wife and their children. But no grand jury would waste an hour on the scandal dredged up on General Vaughan because no criminal act was even alleged.

Production Is Normal

Camden, N. J., Oct. 20 (AP)—Production at the two plants of the Campbell Soup Co. returned to normal today with the return to work of 5,000 workers who walked off their jobs in a dispute over the suspension of a union shop steward. Company and union representatives, brought together by State Mediator William Karpinsky, agreed yesterday that the case will be taken up through normal grievance procedure under the existing contract.

We're Sure That Millions of Farmers and Consumers Feel Just as You Do!

One of the wonderful things about Americans is their great sense of fair play. Ever since the anti-trust lawyers announced their intention of putting A&P out of business, tremendous numbers of people like Mr. & Mrs. N. M. Davies of Congers, New York, have deluged us with letters, wires and phone calls. These people are telling us, as Mr. & Mrs. Davies do in the following letter, why they like A&P and why they don't want to see this company destroyed.

Gentlemen:

We have been distressed by the possibility that the A. and P. stores, because of unfair accusations, may cease to exist. I wonder if you will see, that our letter reaches the proper source, if there is one.

We are farmers, as you know, and not only sell our products, but buy necessary food from local A. and P. stores. We deliver farm produce, daily, to approximately eighteen stores in nearby villages. This includes two A. and P. markets, whose managers very wisely buy on-the-spot, thus saving deterioration due to excess handling, transportation and longer time from the farm to store. Our price to sixteen stores is the same as we get from the two A. and P. stores.

We wondered whether the low prices we see all the time in A. and P. stores might mean that sales people were underpaid. Evidently not, for we have noticed that the same employees stay on year after year, and we know high-school students in our town who have started at the bottom with A. and P. and risen to responsible positions.

Then what is this all about, if the consumers, the salespeople, those who manufacture your brands, the truckmen, the laborers and the farmers are ALL satisfied?

We believe the answer is simple. The A. and P. has developed an organization whose efficiency should be an example to all stores handling food. If this were so, independent grocers could well expect larger profits. The solution is not in destroying something that has taken years to build, but in encouraging all merchants to still further improve the efficiency of their operations.

Very sincerely,
Niles M. Davies
Eileen Davies

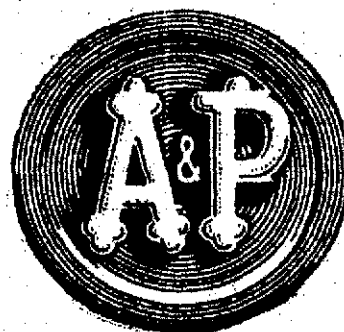

For 90 years this company has tried to build a sound business on the basis of giving consumers more good food for their money and giving farmers better markets for their products.

It is heartening to know that the public approves of the job we have done . . . to know that our policy of fair, honest dealing has won us the friendship of millions of consumers and farmers.

We will always be grateful to all our good friends who have offered us their help.

We are proud to live in a country where such things can happen.

Wallgren from Washington state and Mead from New York. Earlier this year, Mr. Truman's nomination of Wallgren to head the National Security Resources Board was blocked. Critics said Wallgren, an old friend of the President, wasn't qualified to plan the nation's mobilization should war come.

Three Persons Die In First Snowfall

Denver, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Rocky Mountain states listed three dead today from the first heavy snowstorm of the season.

Bruno Krystowink, 11, froze in a snowbank near his ranch home at Shelby, Mont. Miss Bernice Bowron, 45, of Golden, Colo., died in a snow-caused traffic accident west of Denver. Icy roads were blamed for an automobile crash near Buffalo, Wyo., that killed seven months old Margaret Ann Heustle.

Clearing weather in Montana, Wyoming and Colorado promised good hunting for thousands of big game hunters. The snowfall drove elk, deer and bear down from the high elevations.

Snowbound hunters themselves were fleeing the lofty mountains. About 100 shooters who had been snowed in Teton canyon west of Choteau, Mont., began arriving in nearby towns yesterday.

The Rev. Claude T. Keck, 40, Cody, Wyo., minister, was missing on the west slope of the Big Horn mountains 50 miles east of Lovell, Wyo. He disappeared Monday on a deer hunting trip.

Light snow started falling early today in western sections of the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas. The snowfall was expected to be lighter than in Montana, Colorado and Wyoming where depths in the cities ranged around four to six inches.

Nehru Asks World Conclude Cold War

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, of India called on the world last night to cast our fear and bring the cold war to an end.

He said it could be done through the teachings of Mohandas K. Gandhi, apostle of non-violence who led India to independence and then was slain.

Nehru told 1,600 persons at a public dinner in his honor that the world is suffering from a "fear complex."

Fear, he said, is a contagious thing. "One nation gets afraid and the other gets afraid, and the fear rises and makes deplorable consequences."

Gandhi, he said, made his people unafraid and as a result they took "look evil in the face" and finally became free. Even today he said, India is unafraid, "not only have we not got an atom bomb, we rejoice in not having an atom bomb."

India has declined to take sides in the cold war, Nehru said last night that is because his people want to be "left in peace to work out our problems."

He assured his audience that his country will not be isolationist—that it "has to play an important role" in world affairs.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt introduced Nehru to the audience, which paid $12.50 a plate to dine and hear him.

Mrs. Roosevelt described Nehru as a man who might "help to lead us into a period of peace and better living," and she urged those who heard him to be "ambassadors to carry his message to as many persons as possible."

Nehru will speak here again tonight and will fly to Boston tomorrow morning on another leg of his good will tour of America.

$100,000 Action
Reported Settled

Settlement was announced Wednesday in the $100,000 negligence action brought by William J. Moran, Jr., against The New York Telephone Company and Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. No amount was announced.

Moran brought suit to recover damages for injuries which he suffered when he alleged a horse ran away dragging him along while engaged in logging operations near Shaban. He alleged the wire had been negligently allowed to be on the ground causing the horse to bolt. O'Connell & Aronowitz by Cashin & Ewig appeared for plaintiff and A. J. Cook and Viswall, Walton, Wood and MacAllister appeared for the defendants.

Also settled was No. 19, Jack Bernhardt against Dorothy C. Lopus, money damages, and No. 41, Verma L. Ellis against The Montgomery Ward & Co., negligence.

A jury was taken in No. 27, an action for damages for breach of warranty involving apples which allegedly did not measure up to the grade standard after being placed in storage. This action is brought by Michael Lembo against Anthony Andola, Abraham Strelfer for plaintiff and John F. Wadley & Harry H. Flemming for defendant.

Will Sentence Red Leaders on Friday

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—The 11 convicted Communist leaders came up for sentence tomorrow, facing no more than a possible five years in prison and fines.

Most people had thought they could get up to 10 years. However, a revision of the Smith Act carries a maximum penalty of only five years for conspiracy. They also can be fined up to $10,000 each.

Apparently, the revision escaped even the defense attorneys. Throughout the nine-month trial that ended October 14 they spoke of the maximum prison penalty as 10 years.

The Smith Act forbids any one to advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government. The 11 defendants were convicted by a federal jury of conspiring to violate the act.

It developed yesterday that about a month after their indictment on July 23, 1948, the Smith Act was changed to provide the lighter penalty.

The defense moved yesterday to set aside the guilty verdict and gain a new trial. The lawyers also asked that sentence be deferred.

They filed motions contending that there was no evidence at the trial that the Smith Act had been violated. They also said the evidence failed to sustain a guilty verdict and that the Smith Act is unconstitutional.

G.I. Files Court Order To Stay Son's Adoption

Los Angeles, Oct. 20 (AP)—There may be a happy ending to the story of a young unwed mother and the 21-year-old G.I. student-father who wants his baby.

The ex-serviceman, Leroy Hedge, has obtained a court order preventing the baby, born last Saturday, from being placed for adoption. Robert J. Sullivan, Hedge's attorney, said the lad wants to marry the girl, but that "moral and religious" obstacles had prevented it. He also hinted at family opposition.

Superior Judge Thomas J. Cunningham urged Sullivan to do everything possible to have Hedge and Loretta Miller, 17, married.

"I cannot understand," said the judge, "why they are not married forthwith, since this boy has admitted he is the father of the child."

Hedge filed his unprecedented paternity suit Monday, asking to be declared the legal father of the child.

Yesterday Miss Miller was instructed to appear Nov. 2 to show cause why the order restraining adoption proceedings should not be continued until Hedge's suit comes to trial.

He said new mothers will be barred until the ward is repainted and disinfected.

Russell Coles, chairman of the Kingston Veterans Association, has endorsed the spirit behind the Harold Sheehan Home Fund movement to procure suitable living quarters for the disabled Pacific veteran and his family. In endorsing the move, Chairman Coles said in behalf of the K.V.A.:

"A veteran who received such injuries should have his place of residence protected. This association is behind the veterans and all veterans' organizations in the city of Kingston. While his health permitted, Harold Sheehan gave great assistance and even now he has been called on and gives his time and advice to further the purposes of the association."

The K.V.A. was organized in 1938 for the purpose of furthering the welfare of all veterans.

Court Rules Importer Father of Model's Son

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—An Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court has ruled unanimously that Pastor Paul Buonaventura, 28-year-old importer, is the father of a son born to Mila Stefan, 26, a model.

The court, which made the ruling yesterday, reduced from $25 a week to $5 a month the amount the importer must pay for the child's support. Buonaventura, a resident of 460 Pennsylvania avenue, Freeport, N. Y., had been adjudged the father after a trial in Special Sessions Court, and was ordered to pay the $25 weekly.

The Ecuadorian importer contended in his unsuccessful appeal that the model had "failed to sustain the burden of proof."

The child, Michael, was born a year ago yesterday.

Another Spy Trial Faces Miss Coplon

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—Judith Coplon, already convicted on one espionage charge, today faced virtual certainty of another spy trial on Nov. 9.

Federal Judge William Bondy denied a motion yesterday to kill the indictment that accuses her of conspiring to commit espionage with her Russian one-time sweetheart, Valentin A. Gultchev.

Gultchev, a Soviet engineer suspended from his duties with the United Nations, is scheduled to go on trial with her.

Miss Coplon, a 28-year-old former Department of Justice worker, was tried alone in Washington last spring and convicted of taking government documents for espionage purposes.

Judge Bondy ruled that while some of the evidence before a grand jury here "may have been incompetent and improper," there was enough to justify return of the conspiracy indictment.

The judge also denied Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer's motion that he be allowed to inspect the grand jury record.

Judge Bondy said another hearing will be necessary to decide on Palmer's third motion. This is a demand that the government return the papers seized from Miss Coplon when she was arrested by the F.B.I. here on March 4.

These papers are the key evidence in the case.

In her first trial, Miss Coplon said she copied them from Department of Justice files as source material for a novel. They included charges of Communist work and sympathy by movie stars and other prominent figures.

They also included notes on reputed F.B.I. data on Russian espionage and shipments of atomic devices to the Soviet Union.

Palmer made—and lost—a similar motion for return of the papers before the first trial. He claimed yesterday that they were her personal property and that the F.B.I. had no right to take them without a search warrant.

Judge Bondy did not set a date for the new hearing.

MIX UP MACARONI COMBINATIONS

BUILD AROUND MACARONI—Combine cottage and American cheese and sour cream with macaroni for a wonderful dish.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Staff Writer

Garlic, onion, tabasco sauce, sour cream, leftover vegetables, frankfurters, corn and of course, all kinds of cheeses, including cottage, combine deliciously with macaroni. Here are two study one-dish meals based on macaroni:

Macaroni Delicatable

(Makes 6 servings)

One tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces elbow macaroni, 1 cup cottage cheese, 1 cup sour cream, 1/2 cup finely chopped onion, 1 clove garlic, minced, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, dash tabasco sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup grated American cheese.

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so water continues to boil. Cook, uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain. Drain in colander. Combine macaroni with cottage cheese, sour cream, onion, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, tabasco sauce and salt. Turn into a greased 1 1/2-quart casserole and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes.

Remove from oven, sprinkle with grated cheese, return to oven and bake 15 minutes longer, or until cheese melts and is lightly browned.

Macaroni and Vegetable au Gratin (Makes 6 servings)

One tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces elbow macaroni, 1 cup green pepper, cut in 1/4-inch squares, 1 cup sliced celery, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1/2 pound frankfurters, sliced, 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, 1 1/2-ounce can whole kernel corn, 2 large ripe tomatoes, cut in wedges, 1 8-ounce package processed American cheese, sliced.

Add salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook, uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain. Dot with butter, if desired. Sauté green pepper, celery, onions and frankfurters in butter or margarine until vegetables are tender and frankfurters slightly browned. Add corn with liquid from can, tomato sections and cheese. Cover over low heat, stirring occasionally, until cheese is melted. Place macaroni on serving platter and top with vegetable mixture. Serve immediately.

Plug-in Sets in 1928

In the early part of the 20's all vacuum tube radio receivers operated on batteries. "Plug-in" sets didn't begin to appear until 1928.

Wind Tunnel by Jet
London, Oct. 19.—The air-sucking, spout of a jet engine has been hooked to a wind tunnel to speed progress of British research into the problems of faster-than-sound flight. Private manufacturers were unable to finance the elaborate machinery necessary for producing artificial air currents near the speed of sound. And they couldn't test their models without them. An alert engineer at the English Electric Co. where the new "Canberra" jet bomber is built—watched a jet engine gulping great masses of air through its wide-open nose. Why not hook-up the jet to a wind tunnel? he asked. He tried it and it worked. Other British companies are adopting the "jet powered" wind tunnel.

Republican Candidates

WILLARD E. THOMAS

The Republican candidate for alderman of the Third Ward is Willard E. Thomas, 36, of 14 Reynolds street, who has been a resident of that ward for 20 years. He formerly resided on Stephen street and Foxhall avenue and has the interests of the Third Ward residents at heart.

He was educated at Public School No. 5 and Kingston High School in the class of 1932. He also attended Springfield College in 1933. He is employed at the DeLaval Separator of Poughkeepsie where he has worked for 11 years.

"Bill," as he is commonly known throughout the city, is held in high regard in local athletic circles for his sports ability, fairness and good sportsmanship. He has led an illustrious career in the world of sports including both high school and semi-professional competition. He played football, baseball and basketball at Kingston High School for four years. He also is a veteran of 10 years of the City Baseball League. He also played four years for the Kingston Reds, semi-pro baseball team, and four years of football with the old Yellow Jackets.

The Third Ward Republican candidate was instrumental in organizing the city playground system in 1935, a system which has flourished well under competent guidance for the youngsters of the city. Following the beginning of the playground set-up he was a park director at the old Barmann's Park.

Fraternally, he is an active member of Kingston Lodge of Elks, B.P.O.E., the Kingston Athletic Association and the A. H. Wicks Engine Co. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Thomas, he is married to the former Miss Helen Ashdown and they have two sons, Billy and Ronald Thomas. He has been a member of the First Presbyterian Church since his youth.

By his long residence of the Third Ward, the Republican nominee has become familiar with the needs of the people of that area and his energetic and capable forest in city-wide government makes him the ideal man to represent that ward. His election will assure Third Ward voters of good representation in the Common Council.

Do You Remember
by SOPHIE MILLER

Aaron Lipkin said he remembered when he went across the frozen Hudson for a ton and a half of hay in a sleigh and horse which all told weighed some three tons. He and Sam Stone said in those days the wholesale grocers delivered to the Rhinebeck side when the river was frozen four and five ton loads of groceries at a time.

The boys at Central Lunch are still interested to know when the old U. S. Hotel, now torn down for the Broadway underpass, was built. They wish to say thank City Historian DeWitt and my other readers for obtaining the information on those buildings which are melting away with every day's progress.

Today being the day of the Kingston Point Park auction we took a ride down to the old park and found just two other folks fishing by the Hudson. The pavilion was down, only the cement flooring remained. We could not even find a stick or a nail anywhere on the ground. The Clermont had vanished from the lagoon, only tall weeds grow there now. The paths around the park still existed and the splash of water sounded, and the splashing of water sounded. The sounds seemed to be still there, footsteps of thousands of people coming from the direction of the boats and the trolley cars.

We even went to look at the shooting gallery booth, it was still there, or perhaps at the end it was used as a refreshment stand. The Penny Arcade big red building is there, or was it at some time used as a dance pavilion too, or were there two big buildings? The shutters are down but the door was open and all the park benches were there. And the saddest part were the two tall white flag poles, they too have come to rest in the Penny Arcade, where stood the lady in a glass box to give you a penny fortune. Back to the entrance of the park, where the midnight ball used to ring and merry-makers dashed from all over to be on the last trolley. Remember it rang five minutes before the last trolley. It is still picturesque, overlooking the water, although the bandstand at Kingston Point, which Albert Muellerstock built is gone, no more does Muller's orchestra resound from there on Sunday afternoons, nor Burt Murphy sing "The Good Old Summer Time."

But the sweetest memories are those of our own youth, as we looked forward to Sundays at Kingston Point. Driving to the beach, the bathing houses are also gone, so is the long beach. Only the sand and tides of the Hudson remain.

Back to the entrance of the park, where the midnight ball used to ring and merry-makers dashed from all over to be on the last trolley. Remember it rang five minutes before the last trolley. It is still picturesque, overlooking the water, although the bandstand at Kingston Point, which Albert Muellerstock built is gone, no more does Muller's orchestra resound from there on Sunday afternoons, nor Burt Murphy sing "The Good Old Summer Time."

But the sweetest memories are those of our own youth, as we looked forward to Sundays at Kingston Point. Driving to the beach, the bathing houses are also gone, so is the long beach. Only the sand and tides of the Hudson remain.

Guatemala Flood Severe

Guatemala, Oct. 20 (AP)—A Red Cross-U. S. Army relief mission today launched an aerial survey of Guatemala's mounting flood toll, already estimated at some 4,000 lives and $50,000,000 in property destruction. Reports of widespread death and destruction resulting from two weeks of disastrous floods and rains continued to filter into this Central American capital. In one town, 1,000 children were reported homeless, many of their parents presumably dead. Coffee producers estimated at least 30 per cent of their $33,000,000 crop has been destroyed.

Church bells are rung by clanging the edge until the proper note is obtained.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By IAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—After a dozen years of marriage Frances and I have given up collecting bachelors. There simply is no future in it. We are going to collect old buttons or stamps or something like that from now on—anything but bachelors. We have disposed of our last one, and don't intend to acquire any more.

In our heyday, however, we probably had the best collection of bachelors in America and Frances became an expert in their care and feeding.

We didn't set out on purpose to build our collection. It just grew. Bachelors draw each other—like flies.

Soon after we set up housekeeping in Greenwich Village our apartment, for some reason or other, became a bachelor hive. We had boy bachelors and girl bachelors—gay, eager young people who kept our place buzzing.

After a few years the buzz began to subside.

"It isn't so noisy around here as it used to be," said Frances. "Our collection of bachelors seems to be a little smaller."

Well, we checked and found the reason. Something had been getting at our boy bachelors. Know what it was? It was our girl bachelors. As soon as Frances taught a boy bachelor to comb his hair and keep his fingernails clean, one of the girl bachelors would grab him and drag him to the altar. After that, of course, they weren't bachelors.

It turned out we had more boy bachelors than girl bachelors—and after we married off all the latter we still had a stock of the former left.

Our collection then shook down into three main types—the eager beaver or let-me-help-you-around-the-house bachelor, the slothful bachelor, and the sensitive bachelor. But they all had one thing in common. They were all hungry.

One of our handy bachelors built us a bookcase. It collapsed, and I had to bring in a carpenter. Frances used to darn socks for one of our sensitive bachelors while he read poetry. Later he went to Hollywood, wrote a movie and bought a swimming pool. Now he doesn't have to ask anybody to darn his socks. When his toes break through he can just throw away the old pair and buy some more.

The big plant Frances had against our bachelors was this: As soon as I teach one to dry the dishes properly, some gal grabs him off. I'm just running a training school for husbands.

Well, with the attrition of the years we finally were down to our last bachelor. He was a kind of modified slothful type. He began as a helpful bachelor, but deteriorated.

"We're going to have to get rid of him," said Frances. "He's beginning to act like you. He won't run to the grocery store, sits in your chair and reads the newspaper, and just grunts when I ask him a question."

But I think the real thing she had against him was that he had gotten so he could whip her at gin rummy. He was not only eating her food—he was winning her money. Anyway, he got married the other day and now is beating his own wife—at gin rummy. After 12 years we had finally disposed of our bachelor collection. "What'll we collect now dear?" I asked Frances. "Snails," she said. "Anything but bachelors!"

Four Must Die

Seoul, Oct. 20 (AP)—Seoul District Court today decreed death for four young Koreans for the March 17 slaying of Mrs. Ethel Underwood, 60, wife of a prominent American educator and missionary. Three others were sentenced to life terms, one to 15 years and one to two years. The nine defendants, all in their early twenties, were members of a leftist students' organization. Mrs. Underwood was shot to death by one of two men who forced their way into her home while she was entertaining faculty wives of Chosun Christian College at tea.

Berlin Dogs Near Normal

Berlin, Germany (AP)—The dog's life in Berlin is gradually returning to normal. In summer 1949 the city had 32,400 dogs, about 12,000 more than three years ago. This makes one dog for every 62 persons, as compared with 52 before the war. But the dog tax is twice the pre-war rate, 120 marks ($36) a year.

Ballad Singer Will Stand Trial On Murder Count

Columbus, O., Oct. 20 (AP)—A guitar-playing ballad singer indicted in his native North Carolina for murder is going home for trial.

Burton Ransom, 26-year-old entertainer in small night spots, was arrested by F.B.I. men here Tuesday night as he sauntered out of a restaurant.

He and his brother, Benjamin Edwin Ransom, 34-year-old bulldozer operator, were indicted at Wadesboro, N. C., Sept. 28 for the slaying of James Malcolm Shirley, 34, of Hottel, Queens, N. Y. The brothers were accused of slaying Shirley and dumping his body into a water-filled gravel pit near Wadesboro.

Two days before the body was discovered Sept. 7, Shirley's blood-stained automobile had been found abandoned in a shallow creek near Marion, S. C., 75 miles southeast of Wadesboro.

Charles W. Brown, agent in charge of the Charlotte, N. C., F.B.I. office, said his agents found a man who reported seeing the Ransoms riding in Shirley's automobile the day before it was found abandoned.

The week before, Shirley had been reported missing by his wife and a brother, John Shirley of Honea Path, S. C. They said he had left his Long Island home to buy a farm near Staunton, Va.

Ransom, who had appeared in night spots here the last three weeks, was arrested on a charge of interstate transportation of a stolen automobile. F.B.I. agents said Ransom's name was found in Shirley's automobile.

Ransom made no plea when arraigned here yesterday on the auto theft charge before U. S. Commissioner Robert W. Newlon of Columbus. He was unable to post $10,000 bond, which the commissioner set, and was returned to jail. F.B.I. agents said he would be returned to North Carolina immediately.

An autopsy report asserted that Shirley, a veteran of World War 2, had been stabbed in the back, beaten on the head, and that he died of loss of blood.

The F.B.I. said both Ransoms served in the war, Burton in the marines and Benjamin in the army. They are natives of Rockingham, N. C.

Nazarene Church Begins New Expansion Program

With nearly $2,500 in cash and pledges made during Sunday's service, the expansion program of the First Church of the Nazarene, corner of Elmendorf street and Wilkewick avenue, is started, the Rev. Kenneth Pearsall, pastor, has announced.

It is the plan of the board of trustees to present the expansion program over the weekly "Showers of Blessing" radio broadcast and then to make a city-wide campaign in order to secure sufficient funds for the program.

The board recently met and decided that something must be done for the growing Sunday school and for the regular church services. Last year a new church parsonage was built and the old parsonage is now being used as a Sunday school annex. However, it is felt that the classrooms are still too small.

During last Sunday's service when the pastor presented the expansion program, the Rev. Samuel P. Young, D.D., one of the five general superintendents of the Church of the Nazarene, gave his approval and encouraged the immediate expansion effort in Kingston.

Gales Pound Ships

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—Two gales pounded shipping on the North Atlantic for the fourth straight day today, and storm-damaged cripples began limping to port. The three worst-battered ships were the French freighter Caen, the tanker John H. Marion and the Greek freighter Mathios. The 7,176-ton Caen neared Philadelphia under tow by the tug Marion Moran after three days of wallowing without engine power following a propeller accident. The damaged tanker Marion, with one seaman dead, was heading for the Nantucket lightship en route to Baltimore under escort of the S.S. Pueblo.

Martial Law Imposed

Tehran, Iran, Oct. 20 (AP)—Martial law and a curfew have been imposed in Lar, in South Iran 70 miles north of the Persian Gulf, after three persons were killed in an election-day riot. A government communiqué last night said a crowd attacked the local governor's office where voting on parliamentary candidates was going on. Using sticks and stones, the rioters killed three members of the election supervision committee. The crowd also burned the voting box and the governor's office, together with all files and documents.

Freedom Train Visit

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—New York states own Freedom Train rolled into town today for a 10-day visit. A welcoming ceremony for the six cars of historic documents was planned for noon on the steps of the sub-treasury building. The train itself will be on Truck 30 in Grand Central terminal, open to the public from 9-10-9 on weekdays and from 2 to 7 p. m. on Sunday. Admission is free.

Session Is Called

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—Another negotiation session was called for today after the General Electric Company told the C.I.O. Electrical Workers Union that the firm is willing to explore "the general pension and insurance benefit field." G-E's announcement—sued yesterday—was the first time the firm, the nation's largest producer of electrical equipment, had made that concession.

West of the Hill

By Gladys Hasty Carroll—244 pp.

A quiet little tale about plain, sturdy people living in the time of our grandparents in a small settlement in Maine. The characters are simple folk, quite unconscious that their lives are a shining example of accepting the burden of providing for their own and others less fortunate without complaint and with none of the modern mechanical aids now considered essential.

There was Molly, a lovely shy girl, orphaned early, brought up and abused by a brutal uncle, until Brad, a young farmer-lish peddler from "West of the Hill" took her out of pity to his home. There, a cherished wife, Molly found contentment in her housewifely chores of scrubbing, baking and caring for a home which, humble though it was, was heaven to her. Her warm-hearted gratitude to her husband overflowed to take in the whole neighborhood, and moved her to adopt a little waif who accompanied a melancholy "Gospel Band" at a revival meeting in the little church.

Rene, Brad's stern mother, believed in a God of vengeance to all who offended her rigid conception of holy law. She was a kind and helpful wife and mother but frowned upon all frivolity. When Molly and Brad arranged a box social at the schoolhouse in order to provide a matrimonial opportunity for Min (Brad's half-sister) and invited French-Canadians from the nearby logging camp and worst of all—they danced. Well, that was too shocking for Rene.

However when a little later at the revival meeting, Molly stood up and made a brief, moving speech Rene's heart warmed to her and thereafter loved her without reservation. When, still later, Molly came up out of the delirium of childbirth, she found Rene and seven neighbors gathered at her bedside where they had been for many, many hours just waiting.

When, through the minister from the nearby village, Molly and Brad were able to attend Gideon Weeter, a young divinity student to teach in the school and to preach in the church a new and broader outlook was opened to those who could learn. But all of Mr. Weeter's attempts to bring together the Methodists in the village and the Catholic French-Canadians who worked at the sawmill were unavailing until danger came close, first in a diphtheria epidemic and then by a raging fire which destroyed homes in the village and simultaneously threatened the precious new sawmill. The way villagers and countrymen alike worked to prevent the spread of the flames and the heroic sacrifice by Gideon Weeter bring a satisfying climax to this well-written story.

Several interested Home Bureau members recently joined others from Kerhonkson and Ellenville in a bus trip to a United Nations session at Lake Success.

Many from here planned to attend the county-wide Public Health meeting in Kingston Thursday. Later they were scheduled to visit the "open house" at the new Ulster County Tumor Clinic.

Lesson Hand on the Play Both vul.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♠	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass
Opening—♠ 10			20

BY WILLIAM E. McKenney
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand appeared in a recent issue of The Bridge World. I am giving it to you as a lesson hand in the play.

West opened the ten of spades. East won it with the king and led the jack of clubs. South covered with the king. West won the trick with the ace, cashed the queen of clubs and led a third club. Now declarer decided to play for the drop in the diamonds, and when it failed, he was sent three tricks.

Going back to the bidding, West was marked clearly for both black aces by his vulnerable overcall of two clubs. He did not open a club, therefore spades must have been his second suit. Did he have three or four of them? If he had only three, then East held five and East should not have won the first trick with the king, he had no other entry in his hand. When East went up with the king of spades, it was fairly certain that he had only four spades. That meant that West had four spades.

West had bid clubs, which would indicate that he had more clubs than spades, so declarer could feel reasonably sure that West had nine black cards.

To simplify the further reading of the cards, declarer could lead the ace of diamonds followed by the ace, king and queen of hearts.

When West follows to three hearts, declarer would definitely know that East must hold three diamonds and the queen.

Thus by analyzing the bidding and combining it with good play, declarer can make his contract instead of going down three.

The Big Dipper is not a constellation, but part of the constellation of Ursa Major, the Great Bear.

Mt. Holyoke Alumnae Hear Bard Professor

"Germans under 45 years of age are bewildered by normal conditions," Dr. Felix E. Hirsch, professor of history and librarian at Bard College, told the Mount Holyoke Alumnae Association at its meeting last Saturday in Poughkeepsie. Dr. Hirsch, who is a native of Berlin recently returned from a six weeks tour of the country.

The first general elections, establishing a government for Germany took place during his stay.
Dr. Hirsch described the three main political parties. The new government he said is in the hands of old men as the younger ones were disqualified because of cooperating with the Third Reich or having come under the Nazi influence. In the same way, there are few young journalists or teachers.

Dr. Hirsch said there were more students in German universities than in many years. City elementary schools suffered most during and after the war because children had to be evacuated.
Churches, both Protestant and Catholic, the speaker described as "strong forces unsubdued by the Third Reich." They are exerting great influence for good and have done much to help the people of western Germany, spiritually and through social welfare work.

The economic conditions were described not good but slowly improving. Housing is scarce, not only because of destruction of houses but because of the influx of displaced persons and those fleeing from Russian occupied territory.

Following his talk, Dr. Hirsch answered questions from the audience. Mrs. Hirsch also was a guest of the club.

The meeting was held at the home of Miss Ruth Conklin and Miss Katherine DeWitt, 151 College avenue, Poughkeepsie. Lunchcon was served by the Poughkeepsie members who live near Vassar College.

Miss Elaine Saulpaugh of Red Hook reported on the summer institute on the United Nations sponsored by Mount Holyoke College at South Hadley. She attended the discussion on Human Rights Commission and the session on the European situation.

Mrs. Benjamin Collins, Rhinebeck, presided. The club members are working on various money raising projects for the Mount Holyoke College endowment fund.
Mrs. J. C. Wygant, Jr., Marlboro-rough, is district chairman of projects.

Committees appointed include new project, Mrs. Everett Sweet,
Mrs. Robert MacGuinness, Mrs.
Robert Breed, Poughkeepsie; Mrs.
Elaine Saulpaugh, Red Hook; and Miss Reinsmith, Beacon; Spring vacation tea, Mrs. Ralph B. De-Lano, Mrs. Lorent Reynolds,
Mrs. John B. Taylor, Poughkeepsie;
Mrs. Howard Van Winkle, Stone Ridge; Miss Charlotte Wygant, Marlborough and Miss Margaret Bishop, Rhinebeck. Miss Ruth Conklin and Miss Dorothy Went, Poughkeepsie, are co-chairmen.

The spring meeting date was tentatively set for April 22 or 23 at the home of Mrs. Ethan Allen, Milton, with the luncheon in charge of the Marlborough, Milton and Highland alumnae.

All-America Head Says Pro Grid Rivalry Should Be Stopped Now

Kessing Claims 'War' Is Silly and Stupid

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—Pro football's rivalry is "silly and stupid and should be stopped at once," Commissioner D. O. Kessing of the All-America Conference said today.

He had been asked for comment on the statement made by Elmer Layden, former commissioner of the National Football League, that the two groups should get together. It was Layden who once told the All-America circuit to "go to get a football" before talking of smoothing out their differences.

In Philadelphia Bert Bell, now the National's boss, commented only that "Layden is entitled to his opinion now just as he was before." Bell added he had no comment of his own.

The first climax of the 1949 season in the four-year battle for the title is scheduled Sunday when the National's New York Giants outdraw the Chicago Bears at the Polo Grounds. A mile away in Yankee Stadium the New York Yankees play the San Francisco 49'ers, current A.A.F.C. leaders.

Solution in Gotham

Played without competition, each game probably could fill its own park. As competing attractions neither is likely to draw more than 30,000 fans.

Dan Topping, president of the Yankees, said he felt "the basis of the solution of the professional football war is right here in New York."

"To my mind the most impor-

K.Y.B.L. Directors Meet Again Tonight

The second meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Youth Bowling League will be held tonight at 9:30 o'clock at the Bowlatorium. It was announced this morning by George Van Hoesen.

Plans for the city-wide organization of a league for children in the nine to 12 bracket were formulated recently by the directors.

The league is backed by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, civic and religious leaders of the city in an effort to coordinate the activities of these children under competent, approved and paid directors to teach them mutual understanding, the spirit of give and take and fan the underlying competitive strain through the medium of bowling.

One thing on Sunday is not whether the Yankees outdraw the Giants at the gate or vice versa. The most important thing is the total attendance.

"If both games draw 50,000 to 70,000 it will prove professional football can be profitable in New York and I feel sure some solution can be worked out."

Attendances in both circuits this year have shown a slight decrease compared to a year ago.

In 25 games, the All-America clubs have announced a total attendance of 850,550 or an average of 28,285. The National, with many of its better attractions still to come, has announced 536,507 paying guests at 20 games, averaging 26,825.

Harris Rates P.C.L. 'Good Minor League'

Washington, Oct. 20 (AP)—Bucky Harris tossed cold water today on those Pacific coast baseball fans who claim their league deserves to rank with the majors.

"The coast League is a good minor league," the leather-faced veteran said. "It's just what it's needed — a triple-A circuit and no more." "It's certainly not the majors."

Harris has just given up the job of managing the P.C.L.'s San Diego Padres to take over as pilot of the Washington Senators.

For the past few years various coast league owners have been fighting to have their circuit recognized on a par with the American and National Leagues.

Princeton, Lions Face Heavy Tasks In Saturday Games

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—At least two Ivy League coaches have little reason to look forward to Saturday with relish and probably could be excused if they saw the other way when they saw their opponents.

Charlie Caldwell of Princeton faces the unenviable task of leading his team against Cornell, not only a heavy favorite to take the loop crown—but generally regarded as being the second best team in the East.

The best, of course, and Lou Little and his Columbia eleven must play the cadets at West Point.

Neither is particularly happy about the prospects.

Said Caldwell:

"It is not impossible that we can take Cornell, but it is highly improbable. Cornell has three full teams, two offensive and one defensive."

Said Little:

"We've played Army before and always fulfilled the assignment. We'll do it again Saturday, and after that we'll take a trip up to Ithaca to meet Cornell the following Saturday."

Of the two, Columbia faces the least chance of springing an upset. The Lions opened the season auspiciously by beating Harvard. But on successive Saturdays were bounced around by Yale and Pennsylvania.

About all Army spokesmen are saying is that there are no injuries on the cadet squad and that the West Pointers still have not forgotten the day two years ago when Columbia upset the hitherto undefeated Army team. In other games hapless Harvard, victim of four straight opponents, takes on Dartmouth in Cambridge, while Penn, currently leading the league with three victories and no defeats, entertains Navy at Philadelphia.

Yale meets Holy Cross at New Haven, in a non-loop encounter, and Brown, one of the pre-season powers that suffered its first defeat at the hands of Princeton last week, will attempt a comeback against Lehigh.

Was Elmer Amazed!

Elmer Estep, the 405-pound Arkansas hillbilly, registers a look of utter surprise at George Fischer, the 544-pound Rifton chicken farmer who attended the wrestling show Tuesday night to see a "big man in action." Dr. Anthony Mauceri, ring physician, is the third man in the photo. Fischer is a terrific hunk of man. He is 6 feet, 6 inches tall and has a waist measurement of 74 inches. When queried about his diet he said "ask Jake or Pat Senor at the S. & C. Lunch." (Freeman Photo)

'Surprised' at Choice

Houston, Tex., Oct. 20 (AP)—James Alvis (Froggy) Williams, anchor of the Rice line, said today "I'm surprised as all get-out" over being named lineman of the week by the Associated Press. But, it wasn't anything startling to others around the Rice football bullwink. Coach Jess Neely said it was richly deserved and William "is an All-America without doubt. He has been a consistently good player for us for four years, is an excellent student and a fine boy. I am very proud of him."

Bowling Aces Due Here This Weekend

The exhibition bowling season opens in Kingston in earnest over the week-end, with four major matches scheduled at the Bowlatorium and Bowldrome.

The Adirondack Trailways are scheduled for a doubleheader, opposing a Schenectady squad on Friday and the Brockton, Mass., koglers on Saturday night at the Bowldrome at 8 o'clock.

Buddy Lee Clotches, an all-southpaw powerhouse of the Metropolitan Major League, is scheduled against the Bowlatorium's Hudson Valley League squad on Saturday at 9 p. m.

The left handed roster includes a couple of standouts in Roy Nielsen and Ed Neiderhaus.

Women's Match Set

A local women's squad headed by Rose Schatzel and Dot Flemings will meet Shirley Weaver's All Stars of Schenectady as part of the doubleheader Friday night at the Bowldrome. The Doan's koglerettes are one of the strongest teams in upper New York and three years ago were one of the few teams to beat Kaye Sportswear on the local drives. Mass Weaver is the brilliant southpaw leadoff.

Tony Cerri, a veteran 200-average kogler, is the helmsman of the Brockton squad which split in two engagements with Kingston last season.

Chile Is 'Darkhorse'

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 20 (AP)—Chile attracted new attention today as the dark horse in international jumping competition at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show. Its four-man army team delivered a superb performance in a preliminary contest here last night after a 10-year absence from the North American jumping scene.

Bowling

Fraternity League
The Fraternity League will open its 1949-50 season Friday at 3 p. m. at the Bowlatorium, George Van Iloosen said today. Organizations competing in the league must bring team rosters Friday night.

Jack Houghtaling and Vince Guido fired a couple of high powered triples for scoring honors in the Booster League this week, posting 500 and 575 respectively at the Bowlatorium planks.

Houghtaling was well on his way to a "600" with a two-game total of 421 but ran into tough luck in the third set for 169 and a 590 overall. Vince started modestly with 146 and then poured in 304 and 223 for a 575. Bob Giants, Tieney fashioned a 510 for third place.

Other upper bracket kopters included Jim Cave and George Burger with 482; M. Weil and Ray Ameli with 478; Andy Campbell 475; P. Kovalenko 461 and F. Celso and B. Giles with 460.

Percy Slover and Scott Vining furnished the heroes in the Bowlatorium's Silver Palace circuit. Slover fired his way to a neat 526 with 238-209-179, while Vining became the second man of the week to qualify for the A.B.C. "Triple Play Club" with a trio of 171's. Earlier, Phil Levy had qualified in the Good Neighbor League.

Houghtaling opened with his 242 ball and poured out 188 and 209 in his next two games for the hefty 639 count.

V. Cava's 434 featured the Purple Division activities.

Topping off his string with a 202 single, Vince Burns highlighted the Catholic League at the Bowlatorium last night with a 543 series. 113 other counts were 188 and 173.

Other good scores included Jack Hartmann, the Port Ewen version, with 483; Andy Gilday 472; Fred Navarro 465; Pete Nagy 483; Joe Faute 202-465; Ken Radel 475; Leo Schupp 484; Ed Norton 485; Cushman 478; Joe Maher 463; S. ## Rickey Seeks Front Line Mound Help Brooklyn, Oct. 20 (AP)—Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is ready to trade one of his outfielders for a front line pitcher.

He mentioned this item at a press conference yesterday. Earlier Rickey was closeted with Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, in a 90-minute session.

It also was learned that Gene Hottelinski, Brooklyn's left-handed hitting outfielder, and George (Red) Muxson, St. Louis right-handed pitcher, were among the names discussed.

"Our prime need is a front line pitcher," Rickey told the newspapermen. "I am willing to trade one of my eight outfielders for such a man. I think there is a chance for such a trade."

"I am through selling players," he added. "We've sold eight men, four off the Dodger club. That's enough. I won't trade any player that I think will be of benefit to the 1950 team unless I get what I believe is a better player in return."

While he was about it, Rickey predicted another pennant for his Brooks.

Rickey refused to discuss the Brooks' managerial situation for next year other than to say he expected to meet with Burt Shotton some time next month at Vero Beach, Fla., the Dodgers' spring training camp.

Minnows do not grow to be large fish, they are a distinct species themselves.

Bagatelles:

A two weeks hangover: Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown, gave that 18-hole golf course talk a terrific boost during his recent appearance in Kingston and offered to purchase stock and assist in early formation of the proposed club. Wiltwyck Golf Club already has appointed an exploratory committee but there has been no word from Twaalfskill. The Yale football squad being what it is, Bob Herzog, Twaalfskill president, may have other things to torture his mind.

Fletsam and Jetsam:

Being absent from the sports desk during the recent funeral services at Ebbets Field, we were unable to hop on the bandwagon of the "Let's Second Guess Shotton Club." There was one stroke of strategy we couldn't go along with, if we may offer our nickel's worth, maybe two. First, he should have lifted Branca for Hatten when Big John Mize delivered the key hit of the series. We think kindly Branca should have taken his chances with Rex Barney in the fourth game and come back with a rested Don Newcombe in the fifth. Francher Ros would have been available for the sixth game. Beyond that, we think Shotton did the best he could with what he had. The Dodgers simply ran out of ammunition. Giant dicards gleefully reminded us that it took an ex-Giant to win for the Yankees. Thanks, gentlemen. As a matter of fact, Bob Tierney had recovered sufficiently from his bereavement this week to shoot a 510 series in the Booster League.

We'd like to make belated acknowledgment of Lou Bruhn's efforts in making the city golf dinner a huge success. Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Danaher are readying for the annual trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Frank Leachy complained about the officiating in the Notre Dame-Washington game, but pictures showed Irish players using their hands freely from the handbooks shown, the Notre Dams weren't sure whether they were playing football or handball. Harry Grayson's hot tip that Fred Haney will succeed Burt Shotton as Brooklyn manager seems a bit fantastic at the moment. Meanwhile, Horace Stoneham is supposed to have soured on Leo Durocher. It could be that President Stoneham finally realizes that it is much easier for a manager to build himself to a club than it is to build a club to suit the field marshal.

Poughkeepsie High is scheduled to make its bow in DUSO sports in the spring of 1950 in baseball, track, tennis and golf. The football team will make its first appearance in 1951. Earlier in the season the corpulent Sam Kallach let loose a verbal blast about the indifference of P.H.S. grid candidates. Today, he has one of the better scholastic eleven in the area, one that figures to give Kingston High a jolly time on November 5. Miss Jean Gronowit, manager of newly formed McGowan's Freshers girls basketball team in Marlborough would like to hear from local squads. The Marlborough ladies insist on playing boys' rules. How nice! Len Sichter obviously isn't the quitting type, not easily anyway. Despite a disastrous 1948-49 campaign in the Orange-Sullivan Basketball League, the Sichter's Delivery franchise will breathe again in 1949-50, along with Marlborough, Woodlidge, Middletown, Beacon, Monticello and Newburgh.

"Walt's" Bailey scorched the late season (under at Wiltwyck Golf Club) with a sparkling 71 over the week-end, with rounds of 33 and 38. His first time went something like this: 435 335 433-33. Bailey's score card showed eight "3s" for the 18 holes, a rare accomplishment.

Army's powerful football machine, all dressed up and ready to go, could use a couple of high class girl friends. The only excuse for the V.M.I. game is that both schools are military institutions. There is absolutely none for the Fordham date.

Middletown items following Kingston High's 13-0 over the Middies: "It must have been rather embarrassing to the visitors, winning by only two touchdowns, only one of which was made possible by a sustained drive." "Tack! Tack! Tack and Eddie! Since when does a 13-point margin constitute embarrassment?"

(Please tear out this advertisement and read it at your leisure.)

Schirick Reserves Decision Today on Ousting Teachers

Justice Harry E. Schirick today reserved decision on the application of Wendell P. Brown, solicitor general of the state of New York, to strike out certain allegations from the petition and to dismiss the petition of four New York city school teachers, a school principal and a former member of the board of education who seek to have the Supreme Court decide the constitutionality of the Feinberg law which bans subversives from jobs in the state's public school system.

The matter came on before Justice Schirick under a show cause order why the law should not be declared unconstitutional. Wendell P. Brown, solicitor general of the state of New York, appeared and moved for a dismissal of the petition and asked the court to strike out certain of the allegations contained in the petition.

Senator Fred G. Morritt, Brooklyn Democrat, represented the New York group and opposed the application of Mr. Brown.

At the conclusion of the argument Justice Schirick reserved decision and gave Senator Morritt a week, from Friday to file briefs in answer to the solicitor general's application.

At the outset of the argument Justice Schirick, who now has a similar action brought by the Communist party before him for determination, stated that he intended to decide the Communist party action first, unless reason was shown why the second action should not be decided first. Justice Schirick said that by deciding the first action of the Communist party the present matter would be much simplified.

A brief was also filed with the court by the Association of Teachers of Social Studies of New York city, of which Arthur C. Buck is president. The brief of the association, which represents about 800 teachers of Social Studies in the secondary schools of New York city, stated that the association had on September 30, 1949, adopted a resolution opposing the Feinberg law as unconstitutional and that the "law will emasculate the subject matter of the Social Studies" and will force out of classrooms the subjects of important controversial issues of the day.

Senator Morritt stated he had led the fight in the Legislature against the law which he said was unconstitutional in that it violates the freedom granted by the Constitution. "The law is in effect said a man or woman was guilty 'according to someone in Washington' and 'now you must prove you are innocent,'" he argued at length on the constitutionality of the law and said the law "abolishes the right of hearing."

The law, he said, gave power to the Board of Regents or to the attorney general in Washington to label certain people as subversives. Five organizations have been listed as subversive "without a hearing," Senator Morritt told the court.

Frederick Johnston also appeared in opposition to the Feinberg law and cited sections of the constitution. By the 14th Amendment, and other provisions, he held the Feinberg law to be unconstitutional.

The fact that the Board of Regents had declined to hold hearings was submitted by Morritt and Johnston, who held that hearings should be held where teachers would have an opportunity to meet and refute charges made.

Solicitor General Brown at one point stated that the Board of Regents had not concluded its study of the matter and said he believed that hearings would be held before the board completed its study.

Several local attorneys, attended the hearing which was held in the Supreme Court library since the court room was in use by Justice Taylor who is holding a regular trial term of Supreme Court.

Yugoslavia Wins

permitted from the floor before the voting.

Vishinsky's charge was: "Attempts are being made to distort the Soviet position in this matter in a slanderous manner."

Romulo rapped his gavel hard, his voice kept right on talking, increasing the pitch of his voice. Vishinsky ignored the chairman, kept right on talking and finished his statement in about two minutes.

When he finished, loud applause went up from the Slav bloc when Romulo announced that the remarks were "entirely out of order," there was another brief flurry of applause.

Vishinsky pleaded with the assembly to take into account Article 23 of the U. N. Charter which provides that the assembly must consider the principle of geographic representation on the council.

He also urged the delegates to abide by the "tacit gentleman's agreement" which he said had been made among the big powers allowing each area to select its own nominees. The western powers deny the existence of any such agreement.

The council terms of Canada, Argentina and the Ukraine end Dec. 31.

If all 59 nations vote, each successful contestant has to get 40 votes, or a two-thirds majority.

There seemed to be no doubt before the voting began that India would get enough votes on the first ballot to get Canada's seat and that Ecuador would succeed Argentina.

Czechoslovakia entered the meeting with votes of eight announced backers. Russia and the satellite members of the Moscow bloc, Britain, Norway and Denmark. The latter three were sure for only the first ballot.

If neither gets a two-thirds majority, the voting continues and some delegations may shift position in the subsequent balloting.

Two years ago it took 12 ballots in six weeks time to pick the Ukraine for its present seat. That contest ended when India withdrew and broke a deadlock after neither could get a two-thirds majority.

Elections are scheduled also to pick six members of the Economic and Social Council and three members of the Trusteeship Council.

A subcommittee continued work at Flushing on the problem of the future of Eritrea. A new United States proposal is that Eritrea become a federated state under the crown of Ethiopia.

Shaw Station Closes
Ayot, England (AP)—George Bernard Shaw once described himself "an inaccessible man in an inaccessible part of the country."

That's more true than ever now. British railways closed down the station here, the nearest to the 93-year-old playwright's home at Ayot St. Lawrence. Reason given was the small demand for service. Comment from Shaw's home: "He's far too old to travel by train anyway. He always goes by car."

Yugoslavs Display

this headline "By Putting her Candidacy before the Security Council, Yugoslavia Has no Other Aims Except Guarding Independence and Establishing Equal Rights Among Countries."

"Equal rights" is the key to the Moscow-Belgrade fight. Tito has refused to bend to Moscow's will and wants to be treated as an equal.

Charge Is Made
The Yugoslavs charged last night that Russian troop movements in the communist countries were aimed at building up "warmongering" pressure against the Tito regime.

(In Trieste, a refugee Romanian Orthodox archbishop told Italian reporters Russia had concentrated troops along Yugoslav borders with Yugoslavia. Archbishop Eusebius was quoted by the Italian News-Agency Astra as saying Romanian troops fortified the border recently and Soviet troops occupied a second line a few miles away from the frontier.)

The charges, printed in the official newspaper, Borba, said Red army troops have moved into Romania. Fortifications "are being built under Russian supervision along the Yugoslav borders in Bulgaria, Hungary and Albania, the paper declared.

(In Athens, well-informed intelligence officials said privately that Russia had placed five divisions along the Yugoslav borders in the last month.

(These sources — American, British and Greek—said Russia apparently feared that Tito was secretly backing plans for a revolt in the isolated Soviet satellite of Albania.)

Borba's charges were the most specific accusations yet made in the Yugoslav capital about Russian troop movements. Two weeks ago Tito accused Russia and her satellites of "ratting their arms" in an attempt to intimidate Yugoslavia.

The Borba report charged Russia had moved into Romania through Bucharest, with some small Red army units approaching the border toward Yugoslavia.

Strengthening Borders
The article said also that the Cominform countries with Russian help were strengthening their border guards and building trenches and bunkers all along their frontiers with Tito-land.

All these military preparations are being followed by stronger warmongering propaganda in frontier areas," Borba said.

Borba declared war talk was being built up in Bulgaria under a slogan of "liberation" for Macedonia, which now is split among Greece, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

Already there have been reports in Athens that Communist guerrillas, who have been fighting against the Greek government, were being shifted from bases in Albania to Bulgaria prior to a possible attack on Yugoslav Macedonia.

Dewey Opens Bridge

New York, Oct. 20 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today officially opened a bridge on the Long Island northern state parkway in the suburban community of Roseton.

The cutting of a ribbon, which preceded the actual opening of the bridge to traffic by several months, was the first step in a two-day swing through Nassau and Westchester counties in behalf of U. S. Senator John Foster Dulles.

Paris fashions spinster opera stars and New York city took a beating today from Lily Pons, tiny coloratura soprano. In also the same breath, she adapted San Francisco to her own. "This is my pet city," she said. Then in lovely fashion she gave out with these other observations: "New York city is a crowded, dirty madhouse! Parks fashions—Zut! First they are too long—now they are too short! I think the American women wear them best. They are the most beautiful shapes. I'm too petite, always in the middle."
